

Part 1 - The Ugly Duckling Syndrome: Growing up and getting on in medicine

Apr 29, 2017 | 0 ●

humanities, ontheblogs, onthejobs, tips for internship

Author: Sarah Dalton

Editors: Abhijit Pal, Eamon Merrick

What do you want to do when you grow up?

I never really knew the answer to that question. What I really wanted was go to acting school, but that never seemed like the right answer when I was a child.

create you all as equals, but at some point you realise the road will turn and divide and sometimes go different ways, leaving you nowhere near the buddies you started travelling with. There may b not have discovered if things HAD gone to plan. Resilience is hard to learn and harder to teach but all of us have more than we realise or we wouldn't have made it this far.

So, what advice can I d