

C

A 17, 2019 | 0

: Emily Qian

: Elizabeth Campbell

E : Charlotte Hesse

I : Charlotte Hesse

James chats to Charlotte Hesse about going off the wards to discuss clinical reasoning in general practice.

Dr Charlotte Hesse is a GP Clinician and Practice Owner of a general practice in Inner City, Sydney, where she has worked for the last 20 years. Charlotte is a GP Supervisor and the practice is a fully accredited practice that functions as a teaching practice for both medical students and GP registrars. Charlotte also works as Associate Professor, Head of General Practice and GP Research for The University of Notre Dame, Australia, School of Medicine, Sydney. She is current Faculty Chair for NSW/ACT and Vice President, RACGP. She is immediate past Chair for Central and Eastern Sydney PHN and is currently a director on the Board (EIS Health). Charlotte holds an FAICD qualification and has extensive experience in corporate Governance with 17 years' experience as Chair in several Boards with a primary health care focus.

Clinical reasoning in general practice

D C H , G , A 4 N D , G , N , A

I
C

. D C H ,

1.

?

. I

- 1() 4 .M
- 2() A .I .
I - , .

- G
- G

• I I

,

• M

),

A

(

,

,

-

-

5. A 26

2

?

• F I

(. .)

,

,

)

• H

A

,

,

(

,

,

). N

• C

E. .

,

-

,

,

,

,

,

• E

(. . /

,

,

)

• I

D

,

(

,

),

(. .

, FBC, E C, F , B12,

)

• M

A

(

,

)

-

• G

• E

(

)

(

)

• A

,

Related Podcasts

- Improving communication between hospitals and General Practice

Related Blogs

- We all make mistakes: diagnostic error in medicine
- Why bother listening to patients?

Tags: #clinical experience,#clinical reasoning,#communication,#diagnosis,#fast thinking,#General Practice,#history and examination,#patient centred care,#slow thinking

